The philosophy of this class is to work quickly and smartly as to make many paintings without being encumbered with a lot of supplies and materials.

I have listed a suggested watercolor travel set below that will suit the beginner as well as professional. I am also listing a few other supplies that I think will be useful, and add to the enjoyment of working outdoors in the beauty of northern Michigan.

This is only a suggested list and is not required for those who wish to work larger or with more materials.

“Imagine traveling to an exotic and beautiful landscape, carrying everything you need with you for an afternoon of plein air painting. Watercolor pans are easier to manage outdoors, and these pan sets are designed to be compact and lightweight.”

OPTIONAL: Below are items that can be added to a basic travel watercolor set

Watercolor paper and sketchbooks

Watercolor paper comes in a variety of weights or thickness and sizes.

- 10 in. x 7 in. watercolor sketchbook, 140 lb., 20 sheets or watercolor block

Paints and Brushes

Watercolor Brushes (hair: red sable, or sable/synthetic blend is superior to synthetic)

- #12 or #14 round brush
- #10 or #8 round brush
- #4 round brush
- 1in. or ¾ flat brush

Brushes vary in cost and quality. A good sable brush is a wonderful thing and very costly. I suggest beginning students choose medium price, medium quality brushes to begin and add to your materials as you get more experienced.

Tube Watercolors You will need the primary and secondary colors plus a couple of browns and black. (Generally, avoid colors listed as hue or tint and check for a lightfastness rating of ASTM I or II. That means that they will not fade very much and are considered permanent for watercolor painting.)

Watercolor Pans are convenient re-wettable paint colors

Water Containers

Palette A white plastic palette with a lid and raised bins for keeping the colors separate from the mixing area is the goal, such as the John Pike Palette or the Masterson Aqua Pro Palette. You can find trays and plates that suffice in stores like Target or Hobby Lobby as well as in art supply stores.
